Posters

International Olympic Committee -2000/2001 Iran Design by Sean

Step into a world where art and sport harmoniously unite in our latest masterpiece, "Linked All Colors" - a tribute to the International Olympic Committee, thoughtfully designed by Sean. This captivating poster collection captures the essence of unity, blending Sean's impeccable hand-drawn craftsmanship with cutting-edge computer artistry.

Vivid colors and intricately sketched contours symbolize the diverse cultures and nations represented in the global event. As the designer of this collection, Sean skillfully portrays athletes from various disciplines, elegantly intertwining to showcase the spirit of camaraderie and mutual respect.

Experience the unbreakable bond of unity and the Olympic spirit in this awe-inspiring artwork, meticulously crafted by Sean. "Linked All Color" radiates sophistication, celebrating the enduring legacy of sportsmanship and collective ambition, while paying homage to the Olympic Games.

My designs achieved the prestigious prize for two consecutive years.

User Interface

We aim to establish a comprehensive environment to manage patients with EEG abnormalities as effectively as possible:

Our system is designed to serve doctors across all specialties that deal with brain signal-related disorders and diseases that impact these signals.

We are developing an application comprising all brain signal-related diseases to streamline the diagnostic process.

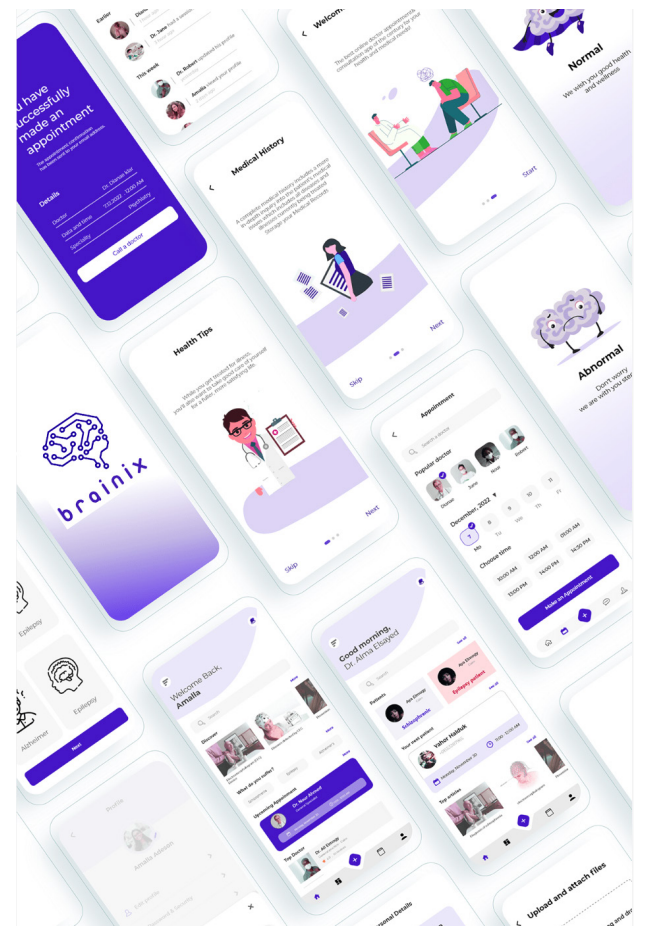

To save time and effort for the patient, we will accept brain signal data from a mobile EEG device, eliminating the necessity for a physical doctor's visit.

Our system is intended to simplify the diagnostic process for doctors and minimize medical errors arising from misdiagnosis.

We will maintain an up-to-date medical history for each patient to prevent incorrect medication administration or potential side effects.

Each doctor will have a profile, complete with patient feedback, to ensure visibility and transparency regarding the quality of their services.
